

Paumanok By Walt Whitman

1819-1892

Sea-beauty! stretch'd and basking!
One side thy inland ocean laving,
broad, with copious commerce,
steamers, sails,
And one the Atlantic's wind caressing, fierce or gentle--mighty hulls
dark-gliding in the distance.
Isle of sweet brooks of drinking-water--healthy air and soil!
Isle of the salty shore and breeze a and brine!

Walt Whitman Trail leads to Jayne's Hill in Huntington – the highest point on LI (401 ft) and where you will find this rock with Whitman's poem
